Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 20 October 2008.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 1-2,10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bodnar (6,686,931 B1).

As to claims 1,11,13 Bodnar teaches a hardware control device and a method of extending the functionality of a navigational control device comprising at least one logical button (fig. 3, items 317,319, col. 7, lines 55-67), said method comprising:

said logical button issuing a first command in a first context (fig. 4E, items 440,317,319 - forward/backward keys, col. 9,lines 38-39); and said logical button issuing a second command in a second context (figs. 5A-5C, items 510,317,319 - forward/backward keys, col. 10, lines 1-14), first command and first context (fig. 3, items 317,319, col. 7, lines 55-67) are not the same as said second command and said second context (figs. 5A-5C, items 510,317,319 - forward/backward keys, col. 10, lines 1-14).

As to claims 10,12, Bodnar teaches a system, a computer-readable medium having computer-readable instructions and hardware control device (Fig. 1 and correspondent text).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bodnar.

As to claim 3,9 Bodnar does not explicitly stated logical button issuing a third command in a third context or logical button issuing an nth command in an nth context.

However, Bodnar teaches said logical button issuing a first command in a first context (fig. 4E, items 440,317,319 - forward/backward keys, col. 9,lines 38-39); and said logical button issuing a second command in a second context (figs. 5A-5C, items 510,317,319 - forward/backward keys, col. 10, lines 1-14) and six different application.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to add four different applications with different context to two already described (navigation and value) in order to associate each button with particular task for a given program context (col. 7, lines 55-57).

As to claims 4-7 Bodnar teaches the command is to step, access and scroll (col. 8, lines 38-50).

As to claim 8 Bodnar teaches the command is to abstract (fig. 4E, items 317, 319 - forward/backward keys, col. 9, lines 38-39).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 10/20/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive:

On page 4, last full paragraph of Remark, Applicant stated that Bodnar is disclosing buttons that have the same, consistent function regardless of the context. However, in Bodnar first command (forward command) is not the same as said second command (backward command), and wherein said first context (go forward) is not the same as said second context (go backward).

On page 5, first paragraph of Remark, Applicant stated that Thus, because Bodnar specifically discloses that the function of a button remains constant regardless of the context. Thus, Bodnar fails to anticipate a logical button issuing different commands in different contexts, as recited in claim 1. However, in Bodnar first command (forward command) is not the same as said second command (backward command), and wherein said first context (go forward) is not the same as said second context (go backward).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
